Black History Month Announcement (read by Madame Rankin):

Toussaint L'Ouverture was the general, president, and leader of Haiti during the Haitian revolution, the only successful revolution of enslaved people in history. L'Ouverture successfully kicked out French, English, and Spanish forces from his island to declare a free Black republic. Born an enslaved man himself on May 20, 1743, he rose through incredible strife to win freedom for an entire nation. Interestingly enough, America was one of the last nations to accept Haiti as an independent nation in 1804 because slavery was still legal practice in the US. Toussaint L'Ouverture is now known as "the Father of Haiti."

Are you going to be a senior? Do you know that Midland High has a program where you get to go to your professional job and receive class credit? Come to one of our Co-op Meetings to learn more details on Wednesday, February 16. During both lunches, Mrs. DeBoer will be available in room 128 to review the requirements for co-op and give you access to the "Interested in Co-oping" Canvas Page. See you Wednesday, Feb. 16 if you are interested in co-op.
